

The Tragedie

But smothered it within my panting bulke,
Which almost burst to belch it in the sea.

Brok. A wakt you not with this fore-agonie?

Clar. O no, my dreame was lengthned after life,
O then began the tempest of my soule,
Who past (me though) the melancoly flood,
With that grim ferriman which Poets write of,
Vnto the Kingdome of perpetuall night:

The first that there did greete my stranger soule,
Was my great Father in law, renowned Warwicke,
Who cried aloud, what scourge for periury
Can this darke monarchie aford false Clarence?

And so he vanish. Then came wandering by,
A shadow like an Angell, in bright haire,
Dadled in blood, and he squeakt out a loud,
Clarence is come, false, fleeting, periurd Clarence?

That stabd me in the field at Tenxbury:
Seaze one him furies, take him to your torments,
With that me thought a legion of foule feinds
Enuironed me about, and howled in mine cares,
Such hidious cries, that with the very noise,
I trembling wakt, and for a season after,
Could not beleene but that I was in hell,
Such terrible impression made the dreame.

Brok. No maruaile my Lord though is affrighted you,
I promise you I am afraid to heare you tell it.

Cla. O Brokenbury, I haue done those things,
Which now beare euidence against my soule,
For Edwards sake and see how he requites me:
I pray thee gentile keeper stay by me,
My soule is heauy and I faine would sleepe.

Brok. I will (my Lord) God giue your grace good rest,
Sorrow breakes seasons, and reposing howres
Makes the night morning, and the noonetide night.
Princes haue but their title for their glories,
An outward honour for an inward toyle:
And for vnfelt imaginations,
They often feele a world of restlesse cares:
So that betwixt your titles, and low names,

There's

of Richard the Third.

There's nothing differs but the outward fame.
The murderers enter.

In Gods name what are you, and how came you hither?

Exe. I would speake with Clarence, and I came hither on
Bro. Yea, are ye so brieft? my legs,

2. Exe. O sir, it is better to be brieft then tedious,
Shew him your Commission, talke no more. Hereadeth it.

Bro. I am in this commanded to deliuer
the noble Duke of Clarence to your hands,
I will not reason what is meant thereby
Because I will be guiltlesse of the meaning:
Heere are the keyes, there sits the Duke a sleepe.
Ile to his maiesty and certifie his Grace,
That thus I haue resignd my place to you,

Exe. Do so it is apoynt of wisdom.

2. What shall we stab him as he sleepest?

1. Noe then he will say twas done cowardly
When he wakes.

2. When he wakes,

Why foole he shall neuer wake till the Iudgement day.

1. Why then he will say we stabd him sleeping.

2. The vrging of that word Iudgement, hath bred
A kinde of remorse in me.

1. What art afraid?

2. Not to kill him hauing a warrant for it, but to be damnd
For killing him, from which no warrant can defend vs.

1. Backe to the Duke of Glocester, tell him so.

2. I pray thee stay a while, I hope my holy humour will Change, twas wont to hold me but while one could tell xx.

1. How doest thou feele thy selfenow? (me

2. Faith some certaine dregs of conscience are yet within

1. Remember our rewarde when the deede is done,

2. Zounds he dies, I had forgot the rewarde.

1. Where is thy conscience now?

2. In the Duke of Glocester purse.

1. So when he opens his purse to giue vs our rewarde,
Thy conscience flies out.

2. Let it goe ther's few or none will entertaine it.

1. How if it come to thee againe?

D

2. Ile
